The Importance of Antioxidants

Antioxidants are substances that help the body in controlling oxidation reactions and free radicals. Chemical medicines, artificial fertilizers, pesticide residues, stress and tobacco stimulate the production of free radicals. Antioxidants aide the immune system's ability to control infection, neutralize environmental toxins and prevent DNA and cellular damage. Research has shown that damage caused by free radicals is a major component in aging and most commonly occurring diseases. Since the body's ability to eliminate free radicals decreases with age, it is necessary to continually replenish the body with antioxidants as you age to strengthen and maintain the body's basic defense mechanisms.

Unlike other antioxidant supplements on the market, EM-X[®] is a revolutionary nutritional supplement that everyone can benefit from, especially those consuming processed foods or exposed to germs, toxins, or stress. contains a broad range of antioxidants, minerals, and amino acids, which work together to strengthen the body's detoxification and immune systems.

Antioxidants found in EM-X[®] Rice Bran Beverage

Antioxidants have some benefits individually, but are most effective as part of a system where multiple antioxidants work synergistically together to provide a broad range of support for the body. EM-X[®] contains trace amounts of the following:

Saponins. Increases the production of Superoxide Dismutase (SOD) and Lipid Peroxide Oxidase (LPO), which helps to strengthen the immune system, protect DNA, slow the aging process and suppress tumor formation.

Ubiquinone. Helps maintain cardiac health, increases energy production and stabilizes blood pressure. Ubiquinone strengthens the immune system by increasing macrophage and t-cell function.

Lycopene. Is twice as effective as beta-carotene and 100 times more effective than Vitamin E in controlling free radicals. It also has immune enhancing properties.

Flavonoids. Have the ability to capture and eliminate free radicals and to regulate enzymes.

Vitamin E Tocopherol Complex. Slows the aging process, halts the chain reactions associated with oxidation and prevents the oxidation of lipids. Vitamin E prevents the oxidation of highly unsaturated fatty acids found in cell membranes, decreasing muscle damage during and after exercise.

Gamma-Oryzanol. A powerful antioxidant only found in rice bran. Gamma-Oryzanol is not a single antioxidant but a mixture of 20 components having numerous antioxidant properties.

Alanine. An important source of energy for muscle tissue, the brain and central nervous system. It strengthens the immune system by producing antibodies and aids in the metabolism of sugars and organic acids.

Glutamine. Makes glutathione, the main antioxidant of the body, which detoxifies and protects all tissues.

Glutamic Acid. The only compound, other than glucose, used by the body to fuel the brain. It aids in the regulation of brain cell activity, improves mental capacity and is essential for cerebral functions.

Nicotinamide Adenine Dinucleotide. The active form of Niacin is a potent antioxidant and the highest ranked coenzyme in the body. NAD and NADH have the ability to activate other enzyme systems and are necessary to convert food into the bio-energy that powers the body.
